

I am against the High speed over the power lines. I have been ham radio operator for 35 years and this is very bad for all the hams. It would sure do away with all the emergency communications that all the hams provide because of the interference.